

International Library Leaders Programme

3–10 July 2024

An intensive week-long programme for mid-career library and archive professionals

Join us in July 2024 for a week-long intensive professional development programme for library and archive professionals.

Our International Library Leaders Programme presents a rare opportunity to join an intimate group of mid-career library professionals at the British Library. Throughout the week, you will gain valuable insights into our initiatives, strategies and programmes.

About the programme

With over 170 million items in the collection, from Magna Carta to Shakespeare's First Folio, the British Library is one of the world's largest national libraries. Our intensive week-long programme offers the opportunity for an intimate group of international library professionals to meet our experts and learn from their experiences of dealing with the everyday issues facing libraries today.

While some of our services have been disrupted by a recent technology outage due to a cyber-attack, we expect the full programme to go ahead as planned.

Course highlights include:

- Discovering how our expert curators use library collections to engage with researchers and broader audiences
- A visit to our conservation studio to learn how we care for our collections
- Learning how we design and manage digitisation projects
- A unique opportunity to visit our high-density storage buildings in Boston Spa in Yorkshire
- Exploring the potential of new tools and services to engage researchers
- Using library collections in learning programmes and exhibitions to engage a wide range of audiences

You'll also meet peers from around the world to share and discuss key issues in contemporary collection management through a series of workshops, case study reviews and focus groups.

Who is the programme for?

We're looking for library professionals who:

- are aspiring leaders or mid-career managers
- have a minimum of three years' relevant experience in libraries or archives
- are proficient in English as the course will be delivered in the English language
- want to gain insights into the breadth of operations in a national library
- are keen to exchange knowledge with library peers.

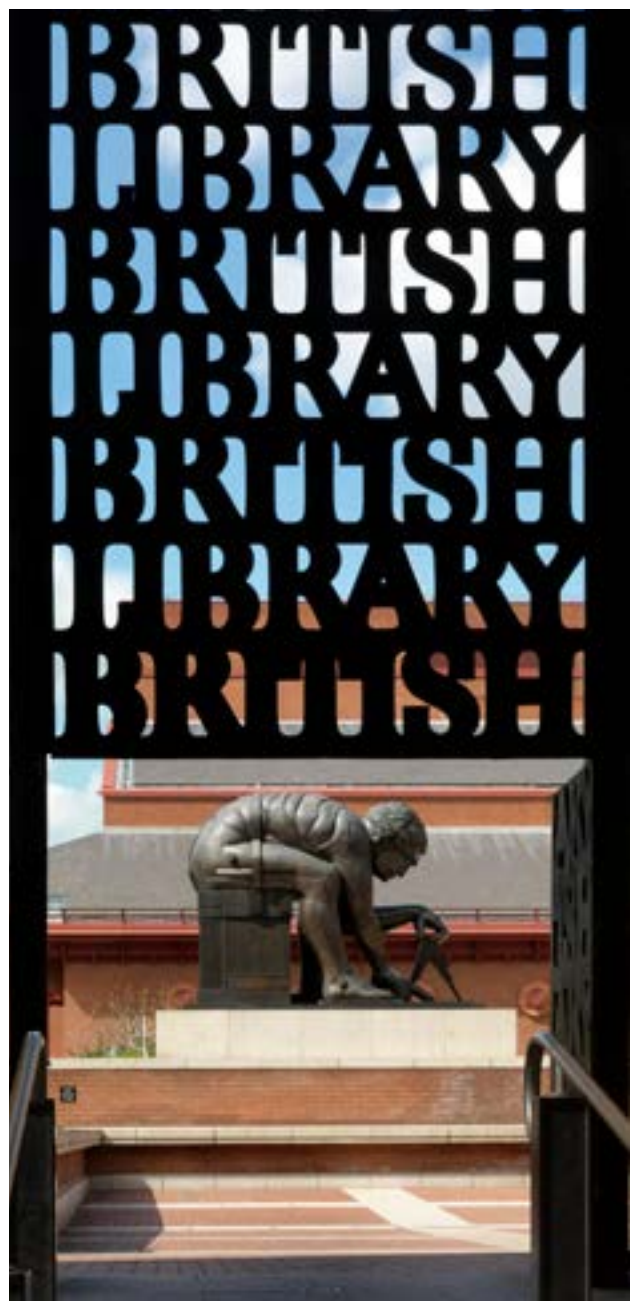

We welcome a wide variety of library sector colleagues to the programme. Examples of just some of our previous delegates' roles include:

- Special Collections Librarian
- Head of Archives, Special Collections and Digital Initiatives
- Head of Research Services
- Chief Librarian
- Head of Special Collections and Digitisation.

The programme is capped at 23 delegates. Our preference is to limit places to one delegate per institution, but we will hold a waiting list for second delegates.

This is an international programme and we welcome delegates from anywhere in the world outside of the UK.

Key speaker profiles

Liz Jolly

Chief Librarian

Liz Jolly has been Chief Librarian at the British Library since September 2018. She is responsible for teams delivering core activities such as collection development; services for researchers, learners, businesses and entrepreneurs; research strategy and digital scholarship; an extensive cultural programme of exhibitions, events, and our online presence.

Andy Appleyard

Director of Operations North

Andy manages a portfolio of services, including British Library On Demand (Document Supply), Digitisation Services, Customer Services, Copyright and Licensing. He also has responsibility for the Public Lending Right, which administers payment of government funds to authors, illustrators, and other contributors whose books are borrowed from public libraries.

Xerxes Mazda

Director of Collections and Curation

Xerxes is responsible for building, managing and promoting the understanding of our collection of published, written and digital content, covering all formats, periods and geographical areas. His department comprises four large collection areas: Asian and African, Contemporary British, European and American, and Western Heritage collections. He also oversees the Research Development team, the Eccles Centre for American Studies, and the Endangered Archives Programme.

Jerry Shillito

Director of Operations South

Jerry is responsible for all of the Library's Reader and Reference services, including our 12 Reading Rooms and the provision of research and reference services to Readers and remote customers. He is also responsible for the development of our St Pancras site, which is a major part of our future strategy to, amongst other things, expand our culture and learning programmes, as well as our business services.

Hugh Brown

Digitisation Project Manager

Hugh is responsible for managing large digitisation projects with our commercial partners and working with their vendors onsite to digitise content. Hugh is Co-Chair of our Race Equality Action Plan, set up to investigate, develop and implement an action plan for race equality at the Library.

Liz White

Director of Library Partnerships

As Director of Library Partnerships, Liz looks after several large-scale sector-facing projects, including LibraryOn – a project that connects people with libraries helping them to understand more fully everything libraries have to offer. Liz previously worked with the Chief Executive to set out the Library's mission to make our intellectual heritage available to everyone for research, inspiration and enjoyment. Liz also led the development of the Living Knowledge Network, a UK-wide partnership with public libraries.

How to apply

The programme runs from 3–10 July 2024. Sessions take place at the British Library in London every weekday except for Friday 5 July, when we will visit the British Library site in Boston Spa, Yorkshire. Over the weekend of 6–7 July, delegates may opt-in to visit other cultural institutions in London.

Fees

The programme fee is £2,190 per person. This includes all course materials, return transport to the Library's Boston Spa site in Yorkshire, refreshments, and lunch during the five full days of the programme. The fee does not include international travel costs to and from the UK, accommodation costs or any other expenses.

Sponsorship and funding

The Library is not able to subsidise or sponsor individuals, and we encourage applicants to secure funding in advance to cover travel, accommodation and the programme fee.

Submitting your application

Apply to join the International Library Leaders Programme via the online application form before the deadline of 12.00 GMT on Thursday 8 February 2024. Successful applicants will be notified by Friday 22 March 2024.

We ask that you read and agree to our Terms and Conditions before you submit your application. Please email us at international@bl.uk if you need us to send you a copy, or if you have any other questions about the programme or application process.

Confirmation of your place

Your place is not confirmed until you have received an email acceptance from us. As soon as your place has been confirmed and an invoice has been issued, we ask that payment be made within 30 days. If payment is not received within this time period, we reserve the right to reallocate your space to another applicant on our waiting list.

Accessibility

We aim to provide an accessible and inclusive environment for all our visitors. Please contact us with any questions regarding specific requirements or adjustments that we can make.
